The VarioCom Slide remote control is an ergonomically profiled device that allows you to remotely control window cover systems and similar solutions. It is a portable remote control that can also be placed on the wall using the included mounting hardware.

The device is able to operate on 6 different channels, which means that it can be paired with 6 different blinds or blinds and controlled independently.

The VarioCom Slide remote control uses two-way radio communication, thanks to which the device receives feedback about the position of the blinds.
